All the preparations. . .

All those little details. . .

Your Investment . . .

Thank you for considering Terebinth Tree Portraits as your photographer for your special day! Since your wedding day is one of the biggest days of your life, it is our sincere hope that you and your beloved enjoy many blessed years together.

Why choose us over another photographer?

In short, we look for the details of your day. Your dress, your eyelashes, your shoes, your grandmother's necklace, your rings, your bouquet, and even your great aunt Sally. It's those details that we look for because long after the wedding cake has been eaten and the music and dancing are over, your investment in fine wedding photography will continue to increase in personal value. This is what drives us to get out of bed each day—to capture the images that tell the story of you. On your big day.

Imagine on your tenth anniversary, seeing that rose petal that your flower girl carefully dropped onto the brick stairs at the church where you wed will bring to remembrance the emotion from that day. Those are exactly the types of things we're always on the lookout for. These are the little things that help weave together the tale of your wedding day.

What do we offer?

Our wedding packages fulfill just about every need a bride could have. All of our standard packages include a set of discs with high-resolution images and a print release, and an online gallery for viewing and sharing.

Since one size doesn't always fit all, you can customize your package to add other things you might need, be it a few extra hours of photography, a second photographer, extra discs, slide shows, or even one of our amazing lay-flat wedding albums. We're here to meet your photographic needs and to help make your special day go as smoothly as possible.

Wedding Albums

Albums are amazing. Albums rock. That's a fact. But why? Here are four reasons why you should seriously consider getting your own custom wedding album.

1. They Tell A Story

This may sound cliché and cheesy, but it's completely true. The main emphasis in modern wedding photography is more and more about telling stories, specifically the story of "Your Day." This is how photojournalism-style wedding photography was started. Family photography is starting to follow suit with the uptick in people desiring "lifestyle" portraiture.

A single canvas above your fireplace tells you what your family looks like. But with an album you can show who your family truly is. Page after page of amazing images reveals more nuances than a single photo ever could. The story is in the details, and albums allow you to see them all.

Perhaps it's that portrait of the little boy hugging his sister. Or the bride's flowers, with her grandmother's necklace wrapped around them. These images are extremely valuable to you, and the way to give them the attention they deserve is with an album.

2. They Last

People buy photography so that they can have those memories forever. But if you have only wall prints, those prints will eventually be replaced. Who would keep up a family portrait from 10 years ago on their wall? Those pieces are meant to be updated.

An album, on the other hand, stays around for generations. It can be kept on the mantle, on the coffee table, or in a bookshelf—ready to be pulled out at any time. While a single image from 10 years ago might make you laugh at how different you looked, a full album, with tons of photos, helps you relive that time, and all the little details you forgot.

Albums are revisited frequently. No one pulls a 24x36 canvas out of storage when friends come over, or sits down on their couch on their 10th anniversary to look at a disc of files (assuming computers in 10 years can even handle a disc!).

3. They're Tangible

The digital age has changed the way we interact with the world, and photos are no exception. Most people don't even print photos anymore, but just keep them online.

Yes, that helps us share images easier than ever before, but there's something missing — the tangible value of a printed photograph.

Touch is an important sense, and gives us a lot of information. We experience a lot of the world tactually. An album lets you bring that experience to your images unlike anything else.

Consider the first few things that brides do with their albums—many will heft the book, run their hands over the cover, and rub the paper between their fingers. They're engaging their custom album with more than just their visual sense. Have you ever held a portrait of someone you loved, and actually touched their face?

Bring the tangible back with an album, and you'll see how it enhances the experience of viewing your photographs.

4. They're Traditional

This might seem backwards, since I was talking about modern photography earlier, and how albums are perfectly suited to the new way of shooting. But the fact that an album is a traditional concept can be very comforting to you.

People know what albums are. Say the words "photo album", and an image of a book with lots of photos comes into their minds. Now, say the words "online gallery" or "photo sharing" and a bunch of different expectations will come to mind. Even Facebook uses the term "album" for collections of images presented together.

Every bride in the world plans on getting a wedding album. She dreams of sitting on the couch with her husband on their anniversary and flipping through the pages of their wedding album.

Brides don't need to be convinced that albums are important. They already know they are. It's a tradition that has gone back to the very beginnings of photography itself, and is still deeply entrenched in our culture.

Wedding Albums

Our custom-made wedding albums are a perfect way to preserve and showcase those special moments and memories from your wedding day for generations to come.

We are pleased to offer two types of wedding albums: Standard and Deluxe. Both types start with 30 pages (15 panoramic spreads). Please see note on page 12.

The Standard Album features pages that have a matte finish and are printed with bold and vivid inks on museum-quality paper. These pages are then bound by hand to create a beautiful one of a kind lay-flat fine art album that is truly world class.

The Deluxe Albums are produced and bound in the same fashion as our Standard Albums. However, the pages are twice the thickness of the Standard album and they have a photo finish that is very water and scratch resistant..

Some of the features and options for both Standard and Deluxe Albums are:

- A Custom full photo wrap cover
- Custom Café leather or Exotic leather cover

- $\frac{3}{4}$ Leather wrap around cover
- Display box to protect and transport your album
- Full Photographic dust jacket
- Custom made cloth clutches in a variety of patterns to protect and transport your album

The covers for your Standard or Deluxe Album can be either a fully custom photographic cover, or a beautiful full grain leather from our Café Leather Line. Either of these options is included in the price of your one of a kind album.

The $\frac{3}{4}$ leather wrap is especially striking, and is available for an extra charge. You can also upgrade to an exotic looking leather to give your album a one-of-a-kind appearance.

About Terebinth Tree Portraits

Terebinth Tree Portraits is based in Murrieta, California and serves the Southern California area. We offer a wide range of photographic services and products. Our wedding style is a mixture of photojournalistic and lifestyle. We also look for the little details of the day that help tell your story...a smile here, some interaction there, or a decoration that the bride thought about for months. We use top of the line Canon cameras and lenses, as well as processing and backup systems.
